Boolean Logic

Boolean Logic	Description	Example
AND	Retrieves data that meets all conditions simultaneously.	artificial intelligence AND analysis will find data that contains both "artificial intelligence" and "analysis".
OR	Retrieves data that meets any one of the conditions.	lion OR tiger OR jaguar will find data that contains either "lion", "tiger", "jaguar", or all of them together.
NOT	Excludes data that meets a specific condition.	apple NOT phone will find data that contains “apple" but excludes anything related to “phone".

Boolean Logic

- Use Boolean logic to combine different keywords, helping you find more precise data.
- Each system may use different search commands.

Boolean Logic	Google Search Command	Example
AND	Use a space	artificial intelligence analysis
OR	Use OR	lion OR tiger
NOT	Use a hyphen (-)	apple -phone

Using Quotation Marks in Search

1. Quotation marks (" ") are used to indicate exact phrases.
2. Why Use Them?
   - Find specific matches.
   - Reduce irrelevant results.
3. Example: "machine learning”
   - Result: Searches for the exact phrase "machine learning".
4. Tips:
   - Use for phrases, not single words.
   - Combine with AND/OR for better searches.

Field Searching

1. What is Field Searching?
   - A method to search within specific fields (e.g., title, author, abstract).
2. Benefits:
   - Narrows results and increases search precision.
3. Relevance of Fields:
   - Title: High relevance; main focus of the work.
   - Keywords: High relevance; directly related to the topic.
   - Abstract: Medium relevance; summarizes content and main ideas.
   - Full Text: Low relevance; may include unrelated information.

Field Searching

- Each system has its own search features
  - Academic Databases: Offers dropdown menus to select fields
  - Google: Uses search commands

Field Searching	Google Search Command Example	Meaning
Specify Website	site:gov.tw site:edu.tw site:mcut.edu.tw	Only search Taiwan government websites Only search Taiwan academic institutions Only search our school’ s website

AI Tools and Report Writing

Guidelines for Using AI Tools to Help Write Reports

- Default Rule: If your instructor does not allow it, do not use it.
  - 📌 When in doubt, ask your instructor first.
- Protect Your Privacy:
  Do not enter any personal information (such as ID numbers, addresses, or phone numbers) or confidential information (such as account passwords or contract details) into ChatGPT, Gemini, or similar AI tools. This may lead to privacy breaches or other risks.

Acceptable Use of AI Tools

❌ AI Use Not Allowed by Default

- Directly generate assignment content (text, code, answers, or images)
- Rewrite or polish AI-generated content and submit it as your own work
- Submit AI-translated content without disclosing AI use
- Any other use of AI without the instructor's permission

✅ Generally Acceptable

- Idea support: Use AI to brainstorm topics and outlines, but you must revise and complete the work yourself.

Guidelines for Checking AI-Generated Content

- ✅ Verify the Information: AI tools may provide incorrect information or even make up information or references that do not exist. Always check the information yourself.
- 🔍 Check the Original Sources: Even when AI provides web pages or references, check the original sources yourself. Do not rely only on AI summaries or explanations.
- ❌ Do Not Cite AI-Generated Content Directly: AI-generated content should not be used directly as an academic citation. Use original sources that you have actually checked.

A Real Example of AI Use in Research (1)

⚠️ What Happened?

- A published journal paper contained AI-generated text that the authors forgot to remove.
- The paper was later retracted for several reasons, including not reporting the use of AI and a lot of content being similar to another paper.
- Lesson: Always check your work and follow the journal's rules about AI use.

- Source: Official Retraction Notice [LINK]

A Real Example of AI Use in Research (2) AI-Generated “Nonexistent References”

- 👩‍🏫 Professor Yeh, Kao-Hua (葉高華) | Department of Sociology, National Sun Yat-sen University
- 2025: Professor Yeh found that a master’ s thesis cited an article that he had never written.
- 2026: He found another doctoral dissertation that listed a nonexistent article as his work and even gave incorrect information about his academic background.
- ⚠️ AI can generate nonexistent references. Users must always verify the information themselves.

- Source: United Daily News (in Chinese) [LINK]
