their regime. Democracy is the only regime which is capable of looking back to its past, with all its mistakes and wrong turns, with its head up. The wonderful thing about looking back is that you are free to do this. Democracy is the only regime that has dignity. This is what I was trying to describe in that sentence which became the key sentence of my design: "This Park is about dictatorship, but as soon as this can be talked about, described and built, the park is already about democracy. After all, only democracy can provide the opportunity for us to think freely about dictatorship, or about democracy, come to that, or about anything." These statues are a part of the history of Hungary. Dictatorships chip away at and plaster over their past in order to get rid of all memories of previous ages. Democracy is the only regime that is prepared to accept that our past with all the dead ends is still ours; we should get to know it, analyse it and think

Q: Could you tell me how many percent of Similarity score given by Turnitin is appropriate?

In my case, I got 19% from Turnitin, is it OK?

1. Turnitin is a tool detecting text similarities. The similarity score is not the plagiarism indicator. Indices do NOT reflect Turnitin's assessment of whether a paper has or has not been plagiarized.

2. A high similarity score does not necessarily mean there is plagiarism.

It may include false positives. False positives could be terms usually used in your field, grammatical terms, your organization title, reference list, properly cited and/or quoted text or text for which permission has been received. You may use the filter tool  to reduce the high similarity.

3. Therefore, based on the above situation, it is difficult to clearly define an ideal similarity score. We recommended you discussing the appropriate criteria with your department or your instructor/advisor.

Final Report of Studies of Eastern Europe

A Communist Heritage of Forgetting and Remembering: The Statue Park in Budapest

Soviet Union in the late 1940s adopted an aggressive ideological campaign to consolidate the regime through East-Central Europe. The most visible aspect was the massive public display of revolutionary symbols in cities under iron curtain. Flags feature the hammer and sickle, emblems of unity between industrial and agricultural workers in the class struggle; Buildings were crowned with Red star of communism, posters of Marx-Engels-Lenin-Stalin on the wall, whilst statues of heroes and communist comrades were erected, with heads uplifted, staring unblinkingly into the future.

When the Eastern-Central European dictatorships demised in 1989-90, political upheavals often followed with popular demonstrations in which many visible symbols were destroyed: socialist-inspired street and square were quickly renamed, emblems as the Berlin Wall or the Stalin statue were torn down, and the fate of these public memorials carving communist ideology became an important issue. Some material legacy can be rapidly effaced. However, other built heritage – the plethora of monumental buildings or tower blocks built for industrial workers- will persist for much longer, reminding a period of history that many people want to forget.

Despite most people in this region has confusing attitude toward this recent past, they can't stop a tide-like growing interest among Western tourist of material legacy of communism. In consequence, many former-associated communist sights were constructed as "attractions" for the gaze of Western tourist. The promotions of these
